XUAS president and vice-president both are actively working in collaboration with the other 17 clan leaders to bring together the Hmong people in the Sacramento region to create a stronger and healthier community. Some of the actions, which had been taken by both the president and vice president of XUAS were as listed:

- Attend meetings with our local leaders to find a solution to address some of the critical issues, which our community has been facing for decade
- Working together with our other 17clan leaders on a proposal to the Sacramento New Year president to bring our 17clan leaders on board as advisors to them. Since the New Year was born of the 18 clans here in Sacramento, it is only right the 18 clan leaders are on board to make sure the use of the funds raised were distributed and make use accordingly.
- Work with other leaders to find ways to better the lives and relationship of our Hmong people in the Hmong community here in the Sacramento region by raising the necessary funds to develop much needed programs for our young and seniors

XUAS president and vice president also work closely with other Xiong leaders outside of Sacramento County to bring the Xiong clan from all across the board to stand together and unity as one. Some of these leaders include, Yuba County, Stockton, Merced, and Fresno.
